What is a Business Resource Center (BRC)?

These locations (formed in partnership with local colleges or universities) house and coordinate resources of local business service providers to offer comprehensive services and on-going assistance to help businesses expand and grow.

Who are the partners?

- SBDC - Small Business Development Centers/ Small Business Administration
- PTAC – Procurement Technical Assistance Center
- MEP – Manufacturer’s Extension Partnership
- SCORE – Service Corps of Retired Executives
- Custom Fit Training Programs
- USTAR – Utah Science Technology and Research

Additionally, many BRC locations also house additional resources: microloan organizations, business incubators, maker spaces, chambers of commerce, local economic development organizations and investors. Many BRC’s provide training on-site via the college or university.

Higher Education Partners:

Utah State University, Utah Valley University, Salt Lake Community College, Bridgerland Tech, Southern Utah University, Snow College, Weber State University, Dixie State University and Davis Technical College.

What are the BRC resources that could help my business?

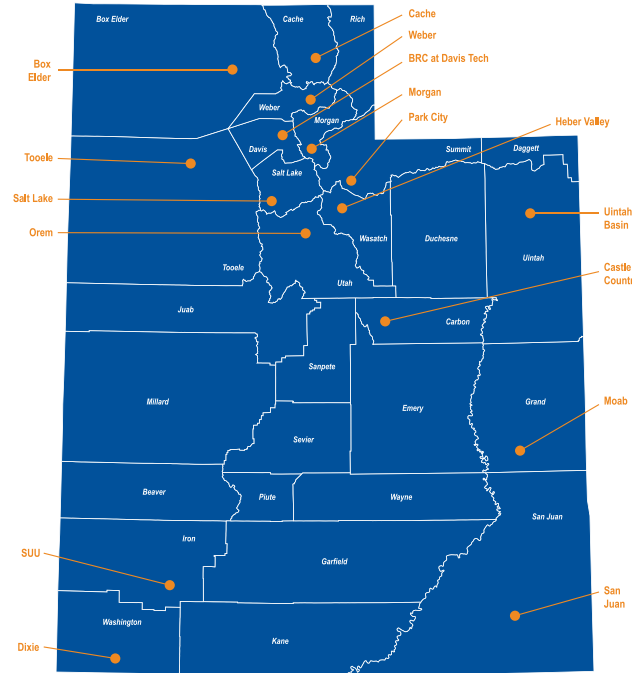

- SBDC Business Plan Development
- Advice on all aspects of business – from start-up to exit strategies including marketing and sales, finance, operations, capital, management and growth
- Training – finances, budgeting, cash management, negotiating, how to work with government agencies – Federal, State & local
- Mentoring from successful business owners
- Support for manufacturing processes – facility layout and design, industry certifications
- Technology entrepreneur services – support to propel a tech idea into products and services

How do I start?

Find the nearest BRC by checking out the list of BRC’s on GOED’s website: business.utah.gov/brc. Then call/ email for an appointment – our BRC Directors will be happy to help match you with the right resource. See complete list of BRC’s on the back of this brochure.

Where are BRC’s located?

With 16 locations throughout Utah and additional availability of programs on-line and support by phone, there is assistance for Utah businesses regardless of physical location.

The BRC vision statement: Economic growth through coordinated business assistance.

The BRC Mission statement: The Business Resource Center Program contributes to statewide economic growth by partnering with institutions of higher education to create access to a coordinated network of federal, state, local and private business service providers and by introducing and promoting their services to local businesses.

How much does the assistance cost?

Most BRC services are provided free-of-charge. There may be costs associated with training and specific/ customized business consultations – be sure to check with the BRC partner.

“The BRC has been instrumental in me growing personally and as an entrepreneur. The team helped me articulate my ideas and develop them into actionable tasks which allowed me achieve my vision. With their mentoring and guidance, I feel ready to scale in a manageable way. I consider myself very lucky to have access to this resource at a time when I needed it most.”

Amber Murray, CEO of See Your Strength

“Through the Park City BRC, I took the Everyday Entrepreneur Pathway Program (EEPP) which introduced me to a new way of thinking about developing and implementing business ideas in an encouraging and realistic manner. Being a creative person, having a means to structure innovation is empowering. I learned how to concept test and learned that my ideas had legs to them and were worthy of developing. Through the peer learning environment and networking that was created in the class, I was able to verify that my ideas have merit and are worthy of support. Working out all aspects of developing an idea is revealing and inspiring.”
